W. M. Fike's Patent Oblique Gold Pen.—The excellence of a well-made Quill I'en is acknowledged by all, but iew are aware that the cause is that it hends laterally at the point, in making strong shades, and becomes an Oblique I'en.

Teachers of penmansbip always direct the pupil to hold the pen so that the top will point over the right shoulder, for by so doing the split and shades are brought more in a line; hut still, "when held well," there is from 15 to 35 degrees difference between the split of the pen and the downward marks. W. Fife's Oblique Pen obviates this difficulty. It curves or deflects from 15 to 35 degrees to the right at the point where it comes in contact with the paper, and it is a perfect an instrument for sloped writing as the straight pen is for back hand. KEPORT OF THE JUDGES OF THE FRANKLIN INSTITUTE EXHIBITION, 1830.

(After speaking well of other Pens.)

During the mouths of January and February last, my lungs became so much affected as to cause great uneasiness at every breath 1 drew. My bough, my expectoration, and the violent prima in my side, indicated that the descret Wts SEATED ON MY LUNGS. At this inne 1 commenced using Dr. Balles Balsan for the time I commenced using Dr. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, which gave me IMMEDIATE RELIEF, and ONE BOTTLE restored me to health. I am satisfied the most recent weeks as Consumpt n, treated in time with this prescription, might be cured!

Respectfully, A SUBSCRIBER AND A DRATMAN, LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Carrespondance of the Louisville Democrat.] Washington, Feb. 22, 1852.

Mesers, Editors: We had a sort of anti Kos outh demonstration yesterday, under the faceions pretence of celebrating the anniversary of Washington's birth-day. The company was very struggles known to the history of our very small and select, and Commodore Stockton, of the U.S. Senate, was invited to give the ffair something of a democratic aspect. Set speeches were made by persons selected for that purpose, and the barthen of all of them was continuation of the Washingtonian policy of non-intervention. Tickets at $5 each were to se had at Willard's Hotel, and from the members if the committee; but very few outsiders came, and a good many tickels remained unsold. This was all: favor of the landlord, who, no doubt, had made a bargain for so much a head, no matter whether the same was visible or nol. The Kossuth dinner, some time ago, was $8 a t tket, and the room was crowded. Gov. Sew. ard was one of the most conspicuous guests at be present at the anti-Kossuth demonstration. It really seems as if Scott and Seward had assigned to themselves very different tasks. Seward is a higher law man; Scott has found southern chamaions to enderse his compromise doctrine, and his readiness to stand by the execution of the fugitive slave law. He will, however, take a care not to commit himself in writing; this being insisted on by Gov. Seward With law cain survey of the fiel! of action, as a conditio sine qua non of his support. SENATE. - The chamber was crowded to exess so much so that the Senators could scarcely gain admittance to hear Clemens reply to Rhett, which was commenced yesterday evening .-During the debate sharp words passed on both sides. The debate was wholly personal.

We invite attention to the advertisement f the new firm of Mark, Dulany and Downs. They have taken the house formerly occupied by Messrs. Leight and Height, and have a fine assortment of fancy and staple dry goods. 'The firm are men of experience and probity, and undeistand how to accommodate the trade and the public.

It was on a pedestrian tour through the southern provinces of France, that I was one evening surprised by the ap proach of darkness, while yet uncertain as to the distance of the village where I proposed to sleep, or indeed, whether might not have strayed from the path had been directed to pursue. Not the beautiful tints that yet lingered in the golden west, nor the delicious fragrance that breathed around me, would wholly dispel that vague feeling of uneasiness which pervades the mind on being overtaken by night in a strange and lonely spot. It was a relief, therefore, to hear at no great distance behind, a French air whistled in tones that seemed to spring from a light and jocund heart; and I gladly awaited the approach of the traveller -a fine martial-looking youth in soldier's habiliments, with a knapsack strapped at his back-who doffed his cap on per ceiving me, saluting me at the same time with the frank and free air of his nation. In reply to my inquiries, he informed me that he was bound to the village of which I was in quest; "but had it been otherwise," continued he, "I should have felt it as much a duty as a pleasure to have guided a gentleman and a stranger." "Yet I had been loath," I replied, "to desire to see"--"One dearer yet! You are an envia ble fellow," I exclaimed, "whom so much happiness awaits, while I may be well content to gain the shelter of an auberage, sorry enough perhaps."

"Sorry! no, no-I would challenge all France to produce so delightful an auberberage as that to which I am conducting you; -the old woman is the best and kindest of creatures, and for Justine"-

"Well for Justine," said I. "She is just the loveliest and dearest girl that ever beamed goodness from a bright eye! In short, Monsieur, for why should I hide a feeling of which I am should I hide a feeling of which I am proud; Justine is that one person, whom I long to see."

"A betrothed mistress, I suppose?" "No, she was too young when I joined the army-scarcely fifteen! and I what had I to offer but an honest heart; and though I loved her better than life, as I might never have returned, you know, it had been ungenerous to betray her into a promise that she would have repented, perhaps, after I was gone!" "Very just and honorable," I obser-

Henri was welcomed with enthusiasm as an old and valued friend; and both mother and daughter were instantly active and solicitous in the service of a stranger and a traveller. Justine in particular, in spite of her holiday array, bestirred herself to spread forth a supper, from which however, she fled with precipitation on the hinted fears of Henri as to her marriage; and I even thought I perceived a convulsive shudder run through her frame.

"Do not say that again," cried the old woman, pressing his hand, "it cuts my poor Justine to the heart!"

"Plague on my tongue," exclaimed Henri, "I would not wound her feelings for the world!"

WE HAVE abundant testimonials to show that MITCHELL'S INDIAN RHEUMATH EXTRACT has cured more hard cases of Rheumatism in the last two years, than any other remedy which has ever been brought before the public. The following certificate from a Physician in this city of his own care of more than 40 years standing, ought to convince any one of the efficacy of this great remedy. LOUISVILLE, KY., May 3, 1810. Messrs. Raymond & Partien-Gentlennen: I have ecrusing Mitchell's Indian Rheumatic Extract, will nore benefit to myself than any of all the remedies ave ever made trial of in the course of jorty years, dur

With great pleasure and unbounded confidence in the use of the above named Extract, I voluntarily send you this certificate for publication. RAYMOND & PATTEN, 71 Fourth st., Agents for the United State SUPERIOR CLOTHS AND CLOTHING.

SPROULE & MANDEVILLE, No. 487, corner of Main and Fourth streets, No. 487, corner of Main and Fourth streets,

WOULD invite the attention of merchants and dealers in CLOTHING to their fail and winter stock, which, for extent, variety, style, and workmanship, can not be excelled in the United Statea, and they believe an examination of their stock would fully repay the trouble of purchasera. It will be their endeavor to sustain the reputation they always have had of selling as well made garments as are made by the beat merchant tailors, and at low prices. A better class of goods has been gotten up this acason than is usually found in clothing houses.
